INLIQUID'S "ART FOR THE CASH POOR 10" AT THE CRANE Two-Day Indoor/Outdoor Party & Sale – June 13 and 14, 2009 Art, Live Music, Libations, and Food!

Philadelphia, May 2009 The nonprofit art/design network InLiquid will present its 10th annual "Art for the Cash Poor" (AFTCP) on Saturday, June 13 and Sunday, June 14, 2009, from 1 to 6 pm at the ultra-happening Crane Arts Building, 1400 N. American Street. This ever-popular indoor/outdoor extravaganza is not your typical arts fair! AFTCP will feature over 100 artists and organizations selling affordable art, plus live music, plentiful libations, fabulous food, and a raffle. One of InLiquid's most anticipated events, AFTCP gives cultivated bargain hunters a chance to meet artists and see their work first-hand, begin or add to their art collection without breaking the bank, and have fun at the same time. As an incentive for fledgling collectors, nothing will be priced higher than $199, and much will be priced well under $100. The eclectic mix of works by individual artists being offered for sale – which run the gamut from photographs, paintings, and prints to jewelry, ceramics, and clothing – ensures that there will be something for every taste. Because this is an indoor/outdoor event with ample tenting in the outdoor area, the event will be held rain or shine.

Visitors to AFTCP always count on an exciting, diverse mix of new music, and this year will be no disappointment. On Saturday, the live music lineup is: Iron, Oud Blues, Leana Song, and Kings and Comrades, plus spinning by DJ Royal T. The band lineup for Sunday is: Gentlemen Christ, The Cobbs, and Illinois, with between set spinning by DJ DeeJay. Browsers can count on sophisticated sustenance with a wide selection of food from extraordinary purveyors including La Dominique, Las Cazuelas, NorthPortFishington Cookie Factory, Quince Fine Foods, Rustica, and Soy Café, with refreshments from Philadelphia Brewing Company.
